A SKIRMOR On Saturday last a abundance. Accordingly, in the afternoon, provided with the necessary implements for the peaceful prosecution of their highly honorable, profitable and bleasant pursuit, they left the city in high glee, with visions of large, soft, delicious paw-paws. But here is still "many a sile." ien the city in high glee, with visions of large, sort, delicious paw-paws. But there is still "many a slip," just as there used to be, and on the arrival of our party at the Bridgeport bridge they were met by a squad of youths from the other side of the river, who informed squad No. 1 that they would be allowed to carry off no more paw-paws from the hills of old Belmont; that West Virginia was now large and old West Virginia was now large and old. irginia was now large and old west Virginia was now large and old enough to raise her own fruit, and if she didn't do it her rising generation would be compelled to go paw-paw many; that Ohio wasn't going to keep West Virginia any ionger. This caused a praise—only one. Remonstrance and entreaty were alike unavailing. The Buckeyes were mild but firm—'not another paw-paw.' What was to be done? How could our juveniles sleep without their pockets, dc., full of paw-paws? How could they rest easy in Sunday School the mext day without a paw-paw or two in each pocket? How could they spend the Sabbath without the enjoyment of a few paw-paws—say 15 or 20? How could wer paw-paws merchant supply his customers, or raise, without this help, enough postage currency for the circus? It would not do to give it up so.

After a long consultation the gaunties was the firm that the sabbath without of the circus? It would not do to give it up so.

After a long consultation the gaunties was through do the proposed to the sabbath without do to give it up so.

The committee was authorized to complete the work above proposed, at $3,250, and work abov nough to raise her own fruit, and if After a long consultation the gauntlet was thrown down to the Ohioans, and the gauge of battle accepted. The claus were rallied round their respective chiefs, and, armed with stones and clubs, the fight commenced. Charge after charge, and counters the commenced of the committee reported that they had purchased lot No. 8, Caldwell's addition, from Mr. Lloyd Hughes, agent for Cyrus Dickson, for $600, which account was part of the committee of the committee reported that they had purchased lot No. 8, Caldwell's addition, from Mr. Lloyd Hughes, agent for Cyrus Dickson, for $600, which account of the committee of th after charge, and counter-charges were unade, and still the fight went on, each peside determined on victory. Road to stones were handled with a rapidity pure the counter of the counter that would surprise our street or steners, and bucketful after bucketful, basketful after basketful, were thrown around with a vim perfectly astonishng, and yet no cessation. Much hard swearing and loud talking was indulged with Mr. Stephen Waterhouse, to furnish the schools of Webster Court inght with redoubled vigor. Much hard swearing and loud talking was indused in by both sides, and our informant says it was decidedly one of the livellest senes he has witnessed for many a day. When he left the fight was still going on, with no prospect of stopping. We do not know the result of this "muss," if it is yet over, but if it is not to-morrow morning we will make another item of it. We infer, however, it was not serious, as we heard of no small funerals yesterday. We suppose there was a pretty large crop of stone bruises in the party, not on their heeiss and expect some of the shavers got pepsa when they came home. If a compromise is not effected between the rival interests we fear for the result, as both sides are determined. We shall keep our readers posted.

Bugox.—A friend of ours, lately an officer in the army, and for a long time on duty in the Atheneum prison, having noticed our item the other day about "varmints" in that building, says that while he was connected with the prison, tattoo, as usual, was been about mine o'clock, at which time it was customary to turn down the gas, and frequently he has been called on to watch the seventh ward schools.

INPLEMENTS OF WAR.—Among the articles sold on Saturday by Provost Marshal Stone, were several that in days gone by have struck terror to the hearts of many in this vicinity. The first were five pairs of hand-cuffs, which were sold to Capt. R. Radel? for 56 cents a pair. The Captain can now take care of all of his friends. The next was the measuring stick, used to ascertain the height of drafted men and recruits. Many a man has shruck with terror beside this harmless affair, and wished himself as small in body as in IMPLEMENTS OF WAR.-Among the MRETING.—There will be another meeting to-night of the "First Mutuaj Store Association of Wheeling." A constitution is to be presented, and other business of importance will come before the meeting. It is desired to have a full attendance. As the object of this association is so good, and by this time so well known to our readers, we need say no more about it in this connection.

The Weather.—We are going to draw on this prolific subject for another item. The weather on Saturday was wet, dark, damp, disagreeable—a regular invitation, in short, to overcoats, umbrellas, overshoes and bitters. We met several persons during the day encased in each of the above named staples. Yeaterday the weather was pleasant, sunshiny, bright, cheerful.
